Jury Is Dismissed In Murder Trial of Aged Texas Pastor

Jury Deliberates on Case From Wednesday Until Noon Today

11 TO 1 FOR ACQUITTAL

Preacher Pleads Self Defense in Killing of Neighbor

MT. VERNON, Tex., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Franklin County District Court jury, in the case of the Reverend J. T. Smith, 71 year old Baptist minister, charged with the murder of W. P. Lammons, was today dismissed.

The case was turned over to the jury Wednesday and has been under their deliberation since. It is said that the jury stood 11 to 1 for acquittal.

The aged man has been married five times and is the father of 24 children, seven of whom make their home with him.

Smith killed Lammons by striking him on the side of the head with a shotgun here last May. His attorney pleaded self defense, placing the aged man on the stand to tell of the trouble between himself and Lammons.

The minister denied that he intended to kill Lammons when he struck him, saying that he had wielded the weapon to check what he termed a threatening advance on the part of the deceased.

The state's attorneys in closing arguments Wednesday afternoon, pleaded for the jurors not to be influenced by the fact that the defendant was a minister declaring that "he should be judged just the same as any other citizen who takes a human life."

The defense asked for an outright verdict of not guilty or, in case of a conviction, for a suspended sentence.

Will Speak on Constitution at Dinner Meeting Tonight

Congressman Tilman Parks, former citizen of Hope, recently elected representative of the seventh congressional district for the sixth time, is to introduce his bill at the Ladies Night program of the Kiwanis Club, when this civic club entertains their wives and sweethearts. Hope's famed citizen is to be the speaker of the evening, as a part of a program in observance of Constitution week.

Miss Evelyn N. Park, talented local singer, will entertain with several vocal selections. The Kiwanians have a delightful program arranged for the evening. The dinner will start at 7:30 o'clock, at Hotel Barlow.

Woman Builds Shrine That Attracts Throngs

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 19.—(UP)—Mrs. Joseph Nagellen spent several weeks of hard labor building, with her own hands a miniature shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes. Hundreds of persons from many parts of the state now make pilgrimages to her shrine.

Mrs. Nagellen's shrine is a place of beauty. Flowers bloom in a profusion of colors around it and small granite stones decorate the back yard in artistic design.

Athletics Cinch Flag; St. Louis For Series

Philadelphia Captures the American, and Cardinals Lead Nationals

For the second consecutive season the Philadelphia Athletics have captured the American League pennant.

Connie Mack's team clinched the championship by defeating the White Sox at Chicago yesterday 14 to 1. Should Philadelphia lose all the rest of its games, and Washington, now in second place, win the remainder of its contests, the Athletics would still close the season in first place.

Meanwhile, the St. Louis Cardinals loomed up as probable winners in the National League by defeating Brooklyn for the third time yesterday at Brooklyn, 4 to 3. St. Louis, which only a few weeks ago was 10 games behind the leading Chicago Cubs and considered to be hopelessly out of the race, spurred at the same time Brooklyn did.

Legion Stamp Sale To Be Launched In City

"Jumbo" Arrives Safely in Massachusetts—Stamps Sale Now Will Send Arkansas Delegation to Boston on Special Train

Word has been received here of "Jumbo's" safe arrival in Boston, where the 1930 world's champion watermelon will be shown in the Arkansas exhibit space at the national American Legion convention next month.

In the meantime, Hope is being organized for the Legion stamp sale which is to finance an Arkansas special train to Boston, carrying hundreds of delegates and exhibits advertising the natural resources and industries of Arkansas in the East.

The stamps have been received here, and today a committee comprising Mrs. B. R. Hamm and Mrs. Fay Russell will visit the largest businesses and place as many stamp orders as possible. The rest of the city will be canvassed by special teams Monday, September 22.

Robert Wilson is Hope's delegate to the Legion convention. "Jumbo," his famous companion in the Arkansas delegation at Boston, has already given remarkable publicity to Hope and Arkansas.

Today a letter was received by the Hope post from the Kolvinator Sales corporation, Cambridge, Mass., advising in part as follows:

"We should have acknowledged receipt of 'Jumbo' before this, but as it landed here during rather hot weather we were concerned about getting it properly taken care of so that it would be in good shape a month from now, before we did anything else."

"We are sure that your post will get plenty of publicity out of 'Jumbo,' and we of course are counting on some for ourselves."

"The melon is being handled exactly as you outlined, and in addition to that we coated it lightly with paraffine to prevent any moisture escaping—to prevent the melon from tending to dry up."

Council Calls Off Meeting Tonight

Will Meet State Engineers Later Regarding Third Street Project

A special session of Hope city council called for tonight to hear city engineer R. B. Stanford, who is to report on the progress of the State Highway Department project in making Third Street acceptable as the through route of No. 37.

The defense asked for an outright verdict of not guilty or, in case of a conviction, for a suspended sentence.

The council will meet at 8 o'clock, at Hotel Barlow.

Shot Through Eyes By Pair of Robbers

Policeman Was Driving His Car With Wife When Shooting Occurred

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Two young robbers who fired without warning sent a bullet through the head of Peter J. O'Rourke, New York city policeman, as he was driving his automobile near here early Thursday.

O'Rourke was unable to use the service revolver he had drawn as the robbers' car pulled alongside the machine in which he was riding with his wife. The bullet pierced both eyes, and he is in a serious condition in University hospital here.

Mrs. O'Rourke prevented a wreck and drove the car for a mile before the robbers forced her to stop. She begged them not to take her money, saying she had only $50 and was a long way from home. The robbers did not take it.

The O'Rourke car was the third, attacked on the road during the night. In each case the robbers fired, but no one else was wounded. Two suspects were arrested.

Fifteen Are Brought Into Court Today For An Examination

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The New York World said today that 13 magistrates and 2 former magistrates had been drawn into an inquiry over alleged purchasing jobs from New York City officials.

It has been alleged that George F. Ewald, former magistrate, bought his job for $10,000 from Martin J. Healey, a Tammany Hall official.

The grand jury, in session now, is to carefully examine the cases now, in those ordered into court.

J. B. Swader To Be Manager Of New Burr Store Here

Former Batesville Man in Charge of Department Store

TO BE OPENED SOON

1,442 Lines of Merchandise to Be Carried in Local Store

With the remodeling work of the new L. C. Burr & Co. department store being completed and merchandise ready to be moved in, J. B. Swader, manager of this latest addition to Hope's business institutions, arrived here several days ago to complete preparations for the store which is to open soon.

"My first job," said Manager Swader, "will be to select the personnel that will make up the working force of the store. Our policy is to employ local people whenever possible and selection is made purely on a basis of fitness for the work. I am particularly desirous of employing people of outstanding ability who can be prepared for promotion as rapidly as possible."

Praises This City
Manager Swader is full of praise for Hope. Particularly striking, he thinks, is the vigorous spirit of the people and the unusually good shopping district of the city. Manager Swader will make Hope his permanent home and will start immediately to prepare for the opening of the new Burr store at 123 East Second street.

"We expect to become a real Hope business institution and our interests will always be for the welfare of this city," he said today. "We expect our store here will attract many more shoppers to Hope than before, increasing the natural trading radius, and will make this city an even greater shopping center than it is now."

Is Batesville Man
Manager Swader's company record is notable, having been employed with the Burr Stores practically ever since they began. Mr. Swader comes from Batesville, Ark., where he has been manager of the Burr store there.

This newest Hope business establishment with its 36 departments carrying 1442 lines of merchandise is the direct result of years of planning and careful development.

Before beginning operation here L. C. Burr & Co. initiated a detailed study of the needs of this territory. Surveys were made of the best selling prices and samples of the best values were sent to the company's market organization in New York where comparisons were made with similar lines from other organizations.

As a result of this study, all lines of merchandise to be shown in this new store represent the highest development in values that can be obtained, according to Manager Swader. In many cases entire new lines have been created and manufactured to meet the specifications adopted by L. C. Burr & Co.

The merchandise plan of L. C. Burr & Co. really dates back several years. During recent years manufacturing has developed to a point where values offered today throughout the country are greater than ever before in history. Only a few years ago the best selling dress in the larger department stores of the greater cities was $39.50, but today an equally good dress can be obtained for around $15.

In all lines of merchandise there has been a similar lowering in price and improvement in value. While a lot of this improvement in values can be attributed to the improvement in manufacturing methods, a big saving has also been accomplished by improving methods of distribution and retaining. Manager Swader said.

Officials Search For Strange Negro

Black Is Alleged To Have Attacked 14-Year-Old School Girl

HELENA, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Municipal and county authorities are making an intensive search in the territory around this city for an unidentified negro man, alleged to have attacked a 14-year-old school girl, in West Helena yesterday.

The girl said she was on her way home from school when the negro seized her. She described him as being about six feet tall, and wearing a blue shirt, striped trousers and a blue cap.

Those nominees who have died since the primary are: W. R. Jones of Batesville, and James H. Hill, of Benton.

Men Murder Aged Kentucky Woman

WILLIAMSBURG, Ky., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Like Wood, 60, and Charles Bullock, also aged 60, were jailed here today and formally charged with the murder of Mrs. Matilda Rose, 75, last night, near her home.

Blood hounds, rushed to the scene of the tragedy, struck a trail that led to the house where the two men lived about a mile distant.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive for the murder. It is believed by officers that at least $1,000 was taken.

Report Cotton to Be Poor Grade This Year

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Department of Agriculture reported today that of the 4,530,583 bales of cotton carried over on August 1, the grade was lower and the staple shorter than the amount of cotton carried over a year ago at the same period of time.

Fair Speakers at Rotary Luncheon; Cuba Travelogue

Cornelius and Pigg Give Last-Minute Details on Fair Week Program

SPEECH ON TRAVEL

Roy Anderson Recounts His Recent Tour of the West Indies

Fast-minute announcements for Fair week, next week, and an interesting travelogue on Cuba, by Roy Anderson, were featured at today's luncheon meeting of the Rotary club in Hotel Barlow.

The Southwest Arkansas Fair will have the largest volume of exhibits this year in all its history, Terrell Cornelius and W. Homer Pigg, president and secretary, respectively, told the club today. Mr. Cornelius sketched the recent booster tour that carried Fair officials and others on a trip through five southwestern counties. He made an urgent plea for 100-per-cent support of the new exhibit hall, in which permanent booths are being sold to local businesses.

Fair Week Program
Mr. Pigg touched upon the highlights of Fair week next week. Daily poultry day will be celebrated Wednesday; Railroad day on Thursday; with all three local railroads placing exhibits of considerable size; and Friday is to be Education day. On this day the schools of the southwestern counties will send thousands to the Fair grounds. Two good football games are also scheduled, Hope High School versus Magnolia High School at 10:30 in the morning; and the Southwest Arkansas Junior college versus Texarkana Junior college at 2:30 in the afternoon.

The principal address at the club today was delivered by Roy Anderson, reviewing the recent tour of Havana and the West Indies made by Mrs. Anderson and himself. Mr. Anderson gave a graphic picture of island civilization, with its sharp line of demarcation between only two classes of people—the extremely wealthy and the extremely poor.

The upper crust of Cuban society is made to support the masses by high taxation, he reported. The state levies enough taxes against the sugar and banana plants to create great public improvements and public resorts for the poorer classes. America Retains Yacht Racing Cup

Vanderbilt Defeats Sir Thomas Lipton Fourth Straight Race

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 19.—The world championship cup for yacht racing today remained in the United States again, just as it has for the last 80 years—ever since an American yacht first lifted it from British waters.

Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht Shamrock Fifth went down for the fourth straight time yesterday to the American champion, Enterprise, sailed by its millionaire skipper, Harold S. Vanderbilt. This ended the series of races, which was a series of defeat or disasters for the challenging Irishman. Lipton's boat was outlasted in the first and second races, suffered a collapsed sail in the third contest, and lost yesterday's final race by the biggest margin of the series.

The Enterprise hung up a new all-time record yesterday, covering the 30-mile course in 11 minutes 17 seconds, the fastest time in all the 89 years since the British first challenged to recover the world championship trophy.

Vanderbilt put his yacht over the course in 3 hours 10 minutes 13 seconds. He defeated Lipton by 5 minutes 17 seconds, considered to be a disastrous margin in yacht racing.

Following yesterday's defeat, Sir Lipton said:

"I will not challenge again. It's no use. We cannot win."

Officers Seek Man On Murder Charge

Kills Father-in-Law and Wounds 14-Year-Old Boy Last Night

FINLEY, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Clint Snyder, 38, shot and killed his father-in-law, Lee Prince, 55, as the latter sat in his home last night. After killing the elder Prince, Snyder turned the weapon on Robert Prince, 14 and seriously wounded him.

Estrangement from Snyder's wife is given as the cause of the shooting. After shooting the elder Prince and his son, Snyder engaged in a gun battle with two other Prince children and his mother-in-law.

Mrs. Prince said that Snyder approached the house in the dark and fired at her husband through the window, killing him instantly. He then came to the front door of the home and shot Robert. The other two children ran through the back door and across the field, with Snyder following shooting at them. As Snyder returned to the house, he saw Mrs. Prince turn out all the lights. Mrs. Prince began firing at him and he returned the shots until his ammunition gave out. As he ran Mrs. Prince fired upon him and it is believed by her that he was wounded.

Officers were summoned by the two children who ran to a telephone almost two miles away.

Five Contracts Let For Road Work

Parley Over Bombing of Garland City Bridge Is Fruitless

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Construction of five projects in the state highway system was constructed for Thursday by the commission in the last contract-letting of the year.

The successful bids on five projects four highway and one bridge jobs, aggregated slightly more than $250,000. Nineteen miles of concrete paving was included in the letting, and one bridge job was contracted.

The commission will meet again October 16, at which time solution of the problem arising out of bombing of the middle span of the Garland City bridge will be attempted. The commission met with officials of the Kansas City Bridge company, contractors on the Garland City project, Thursday but after adjournment commission members said nothing had been agreed upon.

The Chamber of Commerce, merchants, cotton exchanges, the Memphis Freight bureau, Southern Hardware Traffic association and Memphis city delegates are all represented at today's meeting to discuss results that would be beneficial if the merger is completed.

"Airplanes, buses and all kinds of traffic should be operated by railroads," Mr. Upgrevue said.

11 Year Old Boy On Trial Today

Charged With Killing Boy Nine, as He Passed in Wagon

WILLIAMSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP)—William Davis, 11-year-old boy was placed on trial today in Lancaster county court, charged with the murder of Stanley Picusky, 9 years old, with a small calibre rifle.

Davis told attorneys that Adam Rawa, 60, grandfather of Picusky, had broken up his bean patch and in order to "get even," he had fired a wagon in which young Picusky and his grand father were riding to frighten the horse.

The defense of the boy will be that he did not intend to kill the boy and that he was only firing to scare the horse which they were driving.

The Lame Ducks Again

APPROACH of the fall election brings to mind once more the fact that Congress has still failed to enact legislation removing the lame ducks from our midst.

A lame duck, you know, is a congressman or senator who has been defeated at the polls, but who, because of the peculiarity of an out-of-date section of our constitution, continues to sit in a new session of Congress, passing laws for the voters who have rejected him.

The chances are that the tribe will be exceedingly numerous this winter.

Already a great many new members have been added. Many congressmen and senators have been beaten in their fight for re-nomination. Many more who won re-nomination will fall in the November election.

Yet every mother's son of them will be on deck when Congress convenes in December. The men who beat them won't reach Washington for a whole year; during the interim the lame ducks will have everything their own way.

Senator Norris of Nebraska has been fighting for years to put through an amendment that would do away with lame ducks. He would have the new Congress and Senate take office in the first congressional session following election day; a defeated congressman, under Norris' plan, would never cast a vote.

This amendment has repeatedly passed the Senate, but has died in the House of Representatives each time. This winter would be a fine time for the House to prove its devotion to duty by passing it. There is not one valid reason that can be advanced for opposing it. It is not too much to say that any man who does oppose it is simply playing very cheap and discreditable politics.

Let's hope we can have some action on it at the next session.

The Severance Tax

A SHORT time ago this column carried an editorial comment on the fact that while about 90 per cent of the bauxite from which the aluminum ware of the world is served is mined in Saline county, Arkansas, this same Aluminum Company of America, which owns the bauxite is building a model city in east Tennessee, where its Saline county raw material is freighted for manufacture. Our comment was that this model city building, might be done in Arkansas, where the raw material is furnished.

Maybe it is interesting in this connection that there is a severance tax in Arkansas, under the terms of which law timber and oils and minerals taken from the soil of this state, shall pay into the state treasury something to the school fund. The tax of course is in proportion to the wealth the state through its natural resources, gives to mankind.

The severance tax is collected by the state, and is returned after a toll is taken for the state, proportionately to the school funds of the counties from which the payment is made. Where there is much severance tax collected there is much paid back to the county in which the payment is made.

Union county for the past quarter, through oils, received back the sum of $23,320. A tidy sum for the schools when it represents only a quarter of the year. Garland county was paid back $192, but Garland didn't have much on which to collect toll.

Saline county, where the natural ore for the aluminum of the world is mined, received back $1,764.

This may be all correct, and everything, but if the world is supplied with its aluminum from Saline county, doesn't it appear that the tax is rather light? Especially in view of the fact that the company which owns the ore takes it to another state to be manufactured, and where the company's model cities are being constructed.—Hot Springs Sentinel-Record.

How It Works

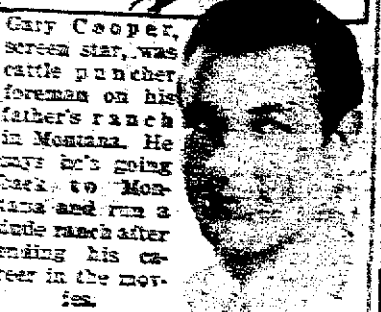

DO you know what a "Nehaska Canary" is? It's a male. At last, that's what Mrs. Mark calls them in her Mitchell (Neb.) Index. These "Canaries" are now making music yet in India. British representatives are out in Grand Island, Neb. (next to St. Louis, the largest male and female traveling center in the United States) playing up these sweet singing canaries, who have neither pride of ancestry nor hope of nobility, to ship them over to India to sell supplies for the British army in their efforts to keep down the uprisings of the discontented people over there who think they want their independence. This shows how independent our people are. The English come to the home state of Senator George Norris who is fighting the power trust, to get the males to go to India to help protect the opium trust.—Max Cox (Neb.) Gazette.

Bread and Butter Only

The Hope Water & Light Plant will buy fire-wood beginning Wednesday, September 24.

This is a relief measure for the benefit of the actual wood-cutters living in the territory adjacent to the city, and purchase of wood will be strictly regulated to protect their interests.

Purchase will be restricted to five cords per week from one family, but the Water & Light Plant reserves the right to move this restriction up or down whenever it appears necessary to protect the wood-cutters' interests.

The Water & Light Plant will lose money on every cord of fire-wood it purchases for fuel. Our purchases will be made strictly as a relief measure, to put a little money into the hands of local people to buy bread and butter. No one is expected to make a profit out of wood sales to the plant.

We reserve the right to investigate any and all arrangements between wood-haulers and wood-cutters, and any wood-hauler suspected of dealing unfairly with the wood-cutter will be barred from further dealings at the Hope plant.

Specifications and Price

All fire-wood offered for sale at the plant must be four feet long, and split. Positively no purchases will be made of wood that fails to meet these specifications.

The plant will pay $2.75 for oak; and $2.50 for pine.

WHY YOU SHOULD POOL COTTON

FIRST—You draw a liberal advance of 90% of the full value which is, in some instances, equal to the amount for which your cotton could be sold outright. This allows you to meet pressing obligations, and stops the interest you are paying on loans.

SECOND—You get advantage of any advance in the price this season.

THIRD—You pay the lowest possible rate of interest.

FOURTH—Your cotton will be concentrated to insure the lowest possible cost of storage and insurance.

FIFTH—Your cotton will be graded and stapled by a government licensed cotton classifier. Since he is working for you, there will be no incentive for him to undergrade.

SIXTH—You will receive advantage of full grade and staple.

SEVENTH—Your cotton will be sold by the American Cotton Co-operative Association, of which Mr. E. F. Creekmore is at the head, a central sales agency representing 300,000 cotton producers in all the Southern States.

EIGHTH—Your cotton will be in strong hands and will not be sold on an unwilling market, which should help to stabilize the price.

NINTH—By pooling your cotton with the Mid-South Cotton Growers' Association, you have access to a ready market or outlet, for each and every kind of cotton, every day in the year, at a fair price.

TENTH—Last, but not least, by placing your cotton in the seasonal pool (which is Option No. 1)

You Will Not Be Called On For Margins

Of special interest to those who have cotton to sell is this fact: When cotton is sold to any local buyer it is immediately hedged on the market. That means, the cotton firm sells that many bales for future delivery. This has a tendency to depress cotton prices. Whereas, cotton placed in the co-operative association is kept off the futures market—is not hedged—but is sold direct to a mill. Further, it is sold throughout the year, in an orderly manner—not dumped in three months, as has been the case heretofore. This has a tendency to increase cotton prices.

Pretty Good and Pretty Fair
Struggle side by side,
Seldom getting anywhere.
By each other tried,
Which is better of the pair
Luck must oft decide.
But when Best is in the fray
Lost is Pretty Fair.
Pretty Good, try as he may,
With him can't compare.
Best will bear the prize away
Every time he's there.
Pretty Fair and Pretty Good

Falter in the test,
Never at the top they've stood,
Never reached the crest.
Lacking skill they never could
Cope with what is best.

Connie Mack

His 50 Years in Baseball

by Alan Gould

While Mack was with the Pittsburgh Pirates, his padded mitts were used by others for the first time. Sunday baseball was initiated by some National League clubs, the bat-bat was abolished and the pitching distance moved back from 50 to 55 feet, 6 inches.

Revolutionary, as well as developments in baseball organization. After the original American Association blew up, cities such as St. Louis, Louisville and Cleveland were taken into membership of a new 12-club circuit.

The split season was tried and abandoned but the 12-club formation remained intact until the end of the 19th century. The 20th was ushered in by a drastic upheaval, the organization of the new American League.

well equipped for the job. My playing days were over. After coming to Philadelphia I never so much as put on a uniform again, and I have seldom even left the bench.

It was struggle for Mack and his partners from the outset in their effort to gain a footing with the new Athletics in the Quaker City.

Connie's major league salaries ranged from $2,000 to $1,500. He had married, but had been thrifty. He put every cent he had saved into the venture and acquired a 25 per cent interest. Later, when wealth and fame came to him, he was able to increase this to 50 per cent, but there was many a month in the early days when the appearance of the players' pay envelopes was in doubt and when no dividends whatever were declared.

at a trial and a war between opposing managers that lasted for several years.

Milwaukee, with Connie Mack as manager, was one of the original teams in the new league, launched in 1901. It finished second to Chicago, followed in order by Indianapolis, Detroit, Kansas City, Cleveland, Buffalo and Minneapolis. For the first time, baseball fans began to take notice of the managerial ability of the lanky Irishman.

Looking backward, 30 years later, Mack told me:

"My experience at Milwaukee was the turning point in my career. I did not know much about handling a club's affairs, but I quickly found out. I was installed as business as well as playing manager. I called the roll, directed the play, paid the bills and handled the other office dealings, besides taking a frequent turn behind the bat. My four years there were most fruitful in their effect upon my later career.

"When, in 1901, Johnson advised me to seize the chance for a partnership with the Athletics in the Philadelphia club of the new league, I was pretty league history to hit four home runs in a single game. Lajoie was then one of the greatest second basemen and a heavy hitter who later cast his lot with the American League.

Before the 1902 season began, Lajoie, Flick and others made the jump to the other side of the big league fence. Mack organized the team that gave him his first major league championship, won the popular approval of Philadelphia fandom and launched forth in earnest on a career which was to bring him fame, wealth and glory.

Clark Griffith, the "Old Fox," was pitcher-manager of the champion Chicago White Sox, starting the American League career that was to lead him to the presidency of a world's championship club in Washington in 1924. Billy Sullivan, the famous catcher, Jimmy Burke, Joe Sugden and Fielder Jones, another to gain later fame as a manager were members of the winning club.

The popularity of the Athletics in modern times makes it difficult to realize that when Mack first directed a team there, it was largely regarded as an outlaw affair, unlikely to last very long. The Philadelphia Nationals then had a strong contender in the older circuit, finishing third in 1899 and 1900, second in 1901 with a club boasting such stars as Ed Delehanty, Elmer Flick and Napoleon Lajoie.

Delehanty was the home run king of his day, one of the two men in major league history to hit four home runs in a single game. Lajoie was then one of the greatest second basemen and a heavy hitter who later cast his lot with the American League.

The Philadelphia Nationals then had a strong contender in the older circuit, finishing third in 1899 and 1900, second in 1901 with a club boasting such stars as Ed Delehanty, Elmer Flick and Napoleon Lajoie.

Delehanty was the home run king of his day, one of the two men in major league history to hit four home runs in a single game. Lajoie was then one of the greatest second basemen and a heavy hitter who later cast his lot with the American League.

Before the 1902 season began, Lajoie, Flick and others made the jump to the other side of the big league fence. Mack organized the team that gave him his first major league championship, won the popular approval of Philadelphia fandom and launched forth in earnest on a career which was to bring him fame, wealth and glory.

Clark Griffith, the "Old Fox," was pitcher-manager of the champion Chicago White Sox, starting the American League career that was to lead him to the presidency of a world's championship club in Washington in 1924. Billy Sullivan, the famous catcher, Jimmy Burke, Joe Sugden and Fielder Jones, another to gain later fame as a manager were members of the winning club.

The popularity of the Athletics in modern times makes it difficult to realize that when Mack first directed a team there, it was largely regarded as an outlaw affair, unlikely to last very long. Just Another Record

HEREFORD, Texas, Sept. 18.—(UP)—In this day of endurance records an old barnyard favorite has a claim to make. She is a white leghorn hen belonging to the Johnson brothers' farm and her bid to fame is the world's sitting endurance contest. The hen took her position on a nest of eggs on May 5 and is still sitting.

LOVELAND, Colo., Sept. 18.—(UP)—A thief had a change of conscience here. One night he stole a flower box from the porch of Mrs. Elizabeth Allen. The next night he returned it.

IN REVERSE!
A triumph for the
NEW
"CRACK-PROOF" TEXACO

DRIVE a few yards in reverse gear. Notice how the engine races. Notice what a pull it places on your motor! Then imagine driving across the entire continent, from New York to Los Angeles and back—all the way in reverse!

That's exactly what the "back-up" boys, world's champion reverse drivers, did with a Ford at a speed of 10 to 12 miles an hour. This is equal, according to Ford authorities, to 50 to 60 miles in high gear.

Success depended upon perfect lubrication

Practically all radiator ventilation and fan cooling were eliminated by driving backward.

Their engine speed, equivalent to 50 to 60 miles in high gear, was maintained for 42 consecutive days. The abnormal engine heat was intensified to almost scorching proportions on the Great Salt Lake Desert, where the thermometer registered 121° F. Anything less than perfect lubrication would have spelled disaster.

Crack-proof Texaco meets every test

After they had conducted many comparative tests they selected the new crack-proof Texaco as the one motor oil most likely to withstand the terrific heat and engine strain. And once again the new Texaco has lived up to every expectation—has proved its longer-lasting qualities that will not break down under any driving conditions.

Modern engines demand an extra margin of protection. They demand better lubrication. Car owners demand lower oil consumption, smoother, quieter engines and freedom from carbon.

The new crack-proof Texaco Motor Oil and Texaco-Ethyl, the "dry" Ethyl Gasoline, provide all these advantages. Wherever you may be, stop at the first Texaco Service Station—where you see the Texaco Red Star with the Green T.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

CELIA ROGERS, just out of high school, spends a hot July looking for a job. Her mother, MARGARET ROGERS, is a widow, employed as a seamstress in a dress shop. On the day the story opens Margaret receives a letter which she conceals from Celia. It is an offer, signed JOHN MITCHELL, to provide the girl with every advantage of education, travel and social position. Margaret will give her up. Margaret declares she will never do this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

CELIA stood before the dressing table, mirror in hand, studying her profile. She turned her head, chin tilted, and tried the effect. She was smiling, half-pleased, and half doubtful.

Her soft waving hair was arranged in a new way, drawn back from the ears. It looked more grown-up, more sophisticated. Would Barney like it?

She pushed back the little curl which insisted on touching her cheek. The curl promptly bobbed forward again.

Celia's eyes were dreamy. She was paying more attention to her appearance these days, thinking more about clothes and spending more time before the mirror since Barney had told her she was lovely looking. Barney said silly things but she liked to hear them.

"Why—mother! I didn't hear you!"

The girl turned quickly. Mrs. Rogers stood in the doorway of the bedroom. Without replying she drew off her hat, laid it with her purse and gloves on the bed and sank into a chair.

"You're awfully late," Celia continued. "They haven't any right to ask you to stay overtime these hot days! I was getting worried—"

"But you shouldn't have, dear," her mother interrupted. "I told you I'd be late this evening."

"Yes, I know. But it isn't fair for Mrs. Rogers to ask you to stay," Margaret Rogers arose.

"I wasn't at the shop," she said. Her back was toward the girl. She did not see Celia's startled glance. "Not at the shop?"

"No. I—I was talking to an old friend."

There was a pause during which Celia eyed her mother expectantly. After a moment Mrs. Rogers added: "I'll tell you about it later. We'd better have dinner now, hadn't we? It must be nearly six."

PRESENTLY they sat down to the meal. There was a salad of which Celia was proud, rolls and a vegetable and fruit.

"I planned to have everything cold," the girl explained, "so the room wouldn't get heated."

Margaret nodded absently. The precaution had been only partly successful. A slight breeze stirred the window curtain but the air was warm.

"You're not eating, mother!" "I'm not hungry."

Margaret cleared her throat then and looked at her daughter. "We're going to have company this evening. I—invited my friend to call."

"But who is it?" Celia could not keep the curiosity from her voice. "You don't remember him, Celia,"

Celia stood before the dressing table, mirror in hand, studying her profile.

The mother said. "I used to know him long ago. Before we lived in Baltimore."

"What's his name?" "Mitchell—John Mitchell."

Celia drew a sigh and honest. "Well—that's a relief! I thought something was wrong. You seemed so mysterious I was afraid you were sick. Who is this Mitchell? I'll bet he's an old suitor of yours! Isn't he?"

For an instant Margaret's eyes held her daughter's. Her cheeks tinged with pink as she answered: "I was fond of him once. He—you must be very nice to him, Celia. I want you to look your prettiest. Wear the rose dress."

"But, mother, I don't have to be here when he comes do I? Barney's going to take me to the Stanley. It's the new Ramon Novarro picture! You'll want to talk about old times—"

Margaret Rogers' voice was firm. "You will have to go with Barney some other time. I want you here tonight."

"Can't I stay just a little while and be excused?" Mrs. Rogers shook her head.

"No, Celia. Not this evening. Don't ask it."

There was silence after that. Celia had been in the house all day. She wanted to see the picture and her mother's firm insistence seemed an affront to 17-year old dignity.

"What time is he coming?" "Eight o'clock. I'm sorry to interfere with your pleasure, but, really, dear, I have reasons."

The cloud passed from Celia's face as quickly as it had appeared. She slipped under the table, kissed her mother's cheek and laughed.

tion. Five minutes later a shrill whistle came from downstairs. "That's Barney," Celia said. "I'll run down and tell him I can't come."

She had not attempted the new coiffure. The brown curls framed the girl's face, as usual. The bright dress added color to her cheeks and her eyes were shining as she hurried down the stairs.

"Hello, Barney."

The young man's greeting was a second whistle, low, intended to express amazement.

"Sa-ay!" Shields exclaimed. "Somebody's looking pretty swell. I didn't by mistake ask you to duet at the Ritz-Carlton, did I?"

Celia laughed. "Of course. Don't you remember? I'm terribly sorry though. I can't go."

He thought it was part of the joke. "And why not, oh, maiden fair?" "Because mother's got company coming. Really, I'm serious, Barney. I mean I can't go to the movies with you. She only told me at dinner time. I tried to beg off but it's no use."

"Can't you stay a while and then duck out?"

"No, I thought of that too. It's some friend of mother's she hasn't seen for years and she says I've got to be there."

"Has your company come yet?" "No."

"Well, you could hop in the car and drive around a couple of blocks, couldn't you? Gosh, I'd like to see you for a minute or two and we can't very well talk here."

Celia hesitated. She glanced up toward the apartment where her mother was waiting. "I shouldn't," she said softly, "but I will!"

Fifteen minutes later a girl in rose silk with windblown curls and sparkling eyes ran up the stairs leading to the third-floor apartment. She was late and yet her heart was singing.

"Maybe he hasn't come yet," she told herself hopefully.

But as soon as she reached the top of the stairs she knew that she was wrong. Celia saw the stranger sitting beside the window. The light shone on his face. Involuntarily the girl stopped. A curious, terrifying feeling came over her.

Celia, standing in the shadowed hallway, felt the tenseness of the room's atmosphere. She drew back, steadying herself with a hand on the railing.

Her mother's voice came to her but Celia could not distinguish the words. Margaret Rogers sat with her back toward the door. The man nodded his head as if in agreement to what had been said.

Celia was trembling. She could not take her eyes from the man's face. Who was John Mitchell? What had he come for?

She conquered her fear and stepped forward. "Mother—I hope I'm not late—tried to hurry—"

Margaret turned. "Oh, Celia! I was wondering what had become of you. We have company."

The girl moved toward John Mitchell. He arose, bowed formally and held out his hand to her. "How do you do?" he said slowly. "So you are Celia—"

The girl raised her eyes to Mitchell's cold, appraising glance. "Celia," Margaret Rogers cut in in a voice that was a sob. "Darling—this is your father!"

Profit In Shells Say River Combers

Pearls and Lotus Lily Seeds Also Bring in Some Income

RED WING, Minn., Sept. 19.—(UP)—Three industries, little known but furnishing employment to many inhabitants, are found along the banks of the upper Mississippi, extending from here south to well into Iowa.

"River spuds," lotus lily seeds, clam shells and "slugs" are the products of these industries.

Scores of "clambers," whose yearly income comes from clams scraped from the river bottom, also market "river spuds," potato-like bulbs that grow in the muddy bottoms. There is a good demand for these bulbs in Chicago markets. Some few "clambers" also collect lotus lily seeds which they dispose of once a year and which later become blossoms in many homes.

This year two hundred tons of clam shells, a half bushel of slugs or irregular shaped fresh water pearls and a tiny handful of well lustered valuable pearls represent the summer's output on the river between the head of Lake Pepin and Diamond Bluff.

The output of clambers at Frontenac, Wacouta, Maiden Rock, Trenton and along the Vermillion will bring the major share of raw material to pearl button factories in the east. The "river spuds" are also known as Indian potatoes and have a decidedly pleasing flavor. Only a few hardy bushes will be harvested in this region.

Mexico City Observatory Seeks More Secluded Spot

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—(UP)—The Geological bureau is seeking a new spot for its observatory—one where it will be easier to distinguish between earthquakes and passing of a heavily laden truck.

The observatory at present is situated in Tacubaya, Mexico City suburb, where increasingly heavy traffic is causing the seismograph to do strange tricks.

Nowadays, when the sensitive needle jumps off its track, the scientists in attendance are never certain whether a serious disturbance of nature has occurred or whether two taxi drivers have had a collision at the next corner. It is understood the observatory will be moved further into the suburbs as soon as arrangements can be made.

Dusky Traveler Carries Live Duck to Eat "In Emergency"

EAST ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—(UP)—John Davis, 72, negro, likes plenty to eat and roast duck is one of his favorite dishes. When he left Indiana for East St. Louis recently, via fast freight, he carried a live duck tucked under his arm.

Days passed but Davis continued to carry the duck along with him, always in the belief that it would serve as a "last resort" meal. Where he put the duck when he made his round for meals, is a mystery, but when he arrived here he had it under his arm.

Arrested, he amused detectives with tales of his experiences with the duck but finally admitted, police said, that he stole the fowl "somewhere in Indiana" for the purpose of using it as a meal in an emergency.
